On the occasion of the late President of India's birth anniversary, our college organized a reading and writing competition for all students. Students actively participated in the competition, and the mentors judged it before awarding prizes. The primary goal of such reading-based competitions is to encourage students to continue reading throughout their lives.

The only reason to keep reading books is that they not only inspire us but also provide us with knowledge. Even though technology has brought in many changes to the way we read, it has only enhanced our ability to get connected to different sources of knowledge through reading. Reading has several merits.
